

Canon Collins Thekgo Bursary 2020

Guidelines for Applicants

Canon Collins invites applications for the Thekgo Bursary. In 2020, in response to the new funding of Higher Education by the South African government, the Canon Collins Thekgo Bursary has been restructured from providing registration fee for first year students to providing bursaries that alleviate undergraduate students' debt. Students who have completed their undergraduate/Honours studies, but their degree certificates/academic records have been withheld due to outstanding debt owed to the university, can apply for debt relief of up to R20,000 in the following disciplines:

- Arts (Visual Arts/Fine Arts, History of Art, Digital Arts, Drama/Performance Studies, Film and Television Studies, Music)
- Languages and Literature
- Media Studies
- Gender Studies
- Education

For the 2020 academic year, Thekgo invites applications from completed undergraduate students (from the above disciplines) who have already missed at least one graduation due to outstanding debt with a any public university in South Africa.

General Information

The Canon Collins Thekgo Fund is a non-profit initiative established in 2007 by a group of professionals keen to promote access to higher education. The stipend is funded by personal contributions from like-minded supporters and donations by the Rotary Club Weinheim e.V. and is run by the Canon Collins office in the UK and on a voluntary basis by a committee consisting of the founding members.

The debt relief initiative was set up in response to the troubling South African reality that students often miss out on job opportunities or further studies due to withheld academic records, owing to outstanding debt with their university. The financial aid scheme affords successful applicants support in payment of debt up to R20,000 (paid directly to the university to clear the student's fees), enabling them to receive the degree document and continue their career.

Are you eligible?

Any student, of any African nationality, who has a strong academic record and is financially challenged, who has successfully completed undergraduate/Honours studies at a public South African public university in the selected province in the above focus disciplines, and is not able to cover outstanding tuition fees of up to R20, 000 with their university, is eligible to apply. The bursary must be used to pay up to R20,000 thereby wiping out the student's debt with the university and allowing the student to get their degree certificate and academic transcript.

To be considered for the 2020 round of Thekgo Bursary, applicants must:

1. Have completed undergraduate studies (three year or four year Bachelor or Honours degree) in a degree programme within Thekgo's focus disciplines in the Humanities, listed above, at a any public university in South Africa.
2. Have outstanding tuition fee debt for the undergraduate programme at their university not exceeding R20,000 (the final amount awarded will be dependent on the outstanding fees statement of individual applicants, and will be paid directly to the university). An up-to-date fee statement must be submitted with the application. Applicants owing amounts that exceed R20,000 will unfortunately not be considered as the bursary's mission is the immediate release of withheld academic records/degree certificates.
3. Have missed one graduation already and/or was not able to receive the degree due to outstanding debt not exceeding R20,000 owed to the university.
4. Provide an academic record demonstrating strong academic merit during undergraduate studies.
5. Provide a reference letter from an academic based in their department supporting their merit and confirming that the applicant has successfully completed all their courses for the degree.
6. Demonstrate financial need and provide relevant documentation to substantiate this – via a pay slip and 3-month bank statement and/or statement of oath made in front of a law official (which can be done at local police stations).
7. Students are required to email a copy of their degree certificate and academic statement to thekgo@canoncollins.org.uk within one month of the outstanding debt having been paid by Thekgo Bursary.
9. No non-graduating student will be considered, nor final year students who have not missed a graduation as yet.

10. Only undergraduate students (including Honours) who have completed their studies are eligible for debt relief. No MA or PhD degrees are covered by Thekgo financial assistance.
11. Thekgo will not cover any NFSAS or bursary/scholarship debts. Only outstanding tuition fees are covered.

Incomplete or ineligible applications will not be processed or answered.
